President's Message

This past year, the South Devon breed has continued to perform in commercial and purebred herds, feedlots and bull tests across the U.S. Having traveled across the country this past Summer, I have been pleased to hear favorable reports from cattlemen utilizing South Devon in their cow herd and feedlots with remarkable results that compare to the very top of any breed.

As the markets recover from the 2015-2016 slump, our attention is focused on obtaining real values for the South Devon breed. Selling the maternal values and strengths of the breed to cattlemen, will bring repeat business and long term commitment from commercial cow herds.

Breed fertility, feed efficiency, docility, maternal mothering at birth, high butter- Dar Giess, NASDA President fat milk, growth, optimum frame size and a breed that is untouched by genetic defects that plague some other breeds are many of the favorable traits that appeal to the purebred and commercial cattlemen.

Recently I talked to a feedlot operator that brought in a group of South Devon-sired steers he unloaded after a nine hour haul. He was impressed that they walked off the truck and started looking for feed and water and were sensible and easy to be around. When you compare the South Devon breed to other major breeds, we compliment them in many ways and add value to most.

This coming January we will have the 45th National South Devon Show in Denver, Colorado during the National Western Stock Show, January 7-9. I hope you all can attend and take advantage of the opportunity to meet with cattlemen from around the world and spread the positive message of the strengths of the South Devon cattle that we all admire.

This issue of the Review is filled with news and results of many of the activities that have taken place this past Summer and Fall. The juniors brought a great group of cattle to the Junior National and they all excelled in the competitions. We are proud of their commitment to the breed and have showcased their efforts on page 7-11. Thank you to all of the sponsors who support the junior program.

Special thanks to everyone who continue to participate in shows and activities and to the work of the regional associations who are working hard at creating new avenues to promote the breed and build membership within their organizations.

eed efficiency in beef cattle is now, more than ever, an economic concern for commercial cattlemen. Increasing feed costs and volatile markets put a lot of strain on a cattle producer's profit margins. Selection for improved feed efficiency in crossbreeding systems is one way cattle producers can maximize production. The best place to start is when selecting what types of bulls to use in your crossbreeding program. The South Devon breed of cattle has been identified as a highly feed efficient breed of cattle in both the Midland Bull Test and now from data by the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center.

Animal Research Center (MARC) is a livestock research institute located in Clay Center, Nebraska. Research is directed at improving efficiency of meat production while maintaining a high quality, desirable end-product for the American consumer. One of the goals at the MARC is to evaluate differences of prominent beef breeds for traits of economic interest. In a recent article published in the Journal of Animal Science from researchers at Kansas State University, breed differences for average daily gain, average daily feed intake and feed efficiency were investigated.

The study looks at 18 breeds of cattle within the U.S. MARC germplasm evaluation program (GPE), which utilizes highly relevant sires within their respective breeds. From 2007 to 2012, Beefmaster, Braunvieh, Brahman, Brangus, Chiangus, Maine-Anjou, Salers, Santa Gertrudis, Shorthorn, South Devon and Tarentaise were integrated into the Cycle VII of the GPE. Cycle VII only previously included Angus, Red Angus, Hereford, Charolais, Gelbvieh, Simmental, and Limousin breeds of cattle. F1 progeny from all breeds were obtained and mated to produce 2-, 3-, and 4-breed crosses. Feed intake data measured with an Insentec system and live weights were periodically gathered on steer and heifer calves from the crossbred population.

Feed efficiency is the combination of feed intake and rate of gain, where an animal that eats less and gains more is more favorable. Average daily gain and feed intake were found to be heritable in both steers and heifers, which means genetic progress can be achieved through selection. When comparing breeds, South Devon steers were found to eat less than Angus but also gained significantly less weight.

Interestingly however, South Devon heifers had much lower average daily feed intake and actually outgained Angus heifers. The management of steers versus heifers was different in the study, as steers were fed a high concentrate diet and heifers were fed a high roughage diet. This implies that the South Devon breed may gain more favorably on diets high in roughage compared to other breeds. This difference translate to females on pasture land. ProducAlthough the cost of gathering feed efficiency data is high, using breed differences to influence bull selection can have benefits for commercial cattlemen looking to maximize their pro duction system. South Devon females offer an opportunity as a feed efficient female base to be used in crossbreeding systems.

In a selection index where feed intake and average daily gain were weighted, South Devon females outranked all other 18 breeds of cattle on the female side for feed efficiency.

Scotchlands Farm & DLCC to donate heifer

The 2017 North American South Devon Association Youth Beef Experience heifer will be donated by Scotchlands Farm, Armstrong, British Columbia and DLCC Ranch, Pierz, Minnesota in memory of Jock McArthur who passed away June 18, 2017.

Jock was a long time supporter of the South Devon breed and a staunch advocate for youth programs within the breed.

Jock served on the NASDA Board of Directors and was an instrumental force in the planning and hosting of the 2008 World South Devon Tour in Canada.

Jock was a family man and was most proud of his three daughters, Mikayla, Morgan and Tegan and his grandson Bryden. True to his Scottish heritage Jock was hard working and had a great sense of humor. He had the privilege of travelling to Scotland and Europe with his wife Kim this past summer.

An accomplished herdsman, Jock developed a herd of black South Devon cattle with some of the top genetics from the U.S. and Canada.

The heifer donated is out of DLCC BC 57B a daughter of DLCC Fancy Pants 103Y originally shown at the National Show by daughter Tegan.

Western States juniors support St. Jude's

The fourth annual 'Kids Helping Kids' Yuba-Sutter Truckin' for St. Jude was held April 22, 2017 at the Sutter High School.

Hosted by Scott Gardner and Robert Mack, the charity event was held to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

The Western States South Devon Junior Association participated by selling Tri-Tip sandwiches from their concession stand.

The event showcased great BBQ, with various truck-related vendors. The show featured over 80 rides attendees could choose from for the People's Choice Award.

Travis Moniz, president of the Western States Junior Association helped with the raffle items and at the end of the day donated $100 to Scott Gardner, Yuba-Sutter Truckin' for St. Jude to help with the cause.

2017 World South Devon Tour - South Africa

By Heather Lindsay, Australia

South Africa is a land of huge contrasts - huge wealth and huge poverty. The people we met were wonderful and the South African hospitality hard to beat. The countryside was very different to what I had expected; I was expecting much more open country and less mountains. Maybe if we had gone further west, it may have been like that. I also had no idea that there was so much of South Aftrica that experienced snow. In fact, I quickly realized that I really didn't know much about South Africa at all. It is an exciting and vibrant country.

they could show us their cattle. They showed us their cattle as they really are; no primping, straight out of the paddock.

Tours like this are so valuable in fostering strong ties between breeders from all over the world. I feel we are about to enter a time of much closer cooperation between our national societies, due in no small part to the ties forged by these tours and conferences. Already there are plans for rekindling the friendships in New Zealand in 2020 and some of our new South African South Devon family members are planning to be there.

We thoroughly enjoyed our trip. We feel we have made some long-term friends among the South African South Devon breeders and we really appreciated the trouble that they had gone to so

South Devon Steers Shine in California

By Jo Moniz

The South Devon Cattle and their handlers rocked the Colusa County Fair. There were seven South Devon Poundmaker Steers along with some breeding cattle between Princeton 4H Beef and Princeton FFA. This is a chapter that four years ago there was only one steer between both 4H and FFA. Three years ago there were four head of cattle and this year for 2017 Princeton had a total of 21 head on exhibit.

The kids all did their job and spent countless hours with their animals and their hard work paid off for them. Four of the seven exhibitors it was their first time showing a beef project and they accelerated like a pro.

The results are as follows for Princeton 4H Beef:

Eli Miller- steer weighed 1376 pounds. He was 2^{nd} in market class and Carcass of Merit.

Alysha Robledo- steer weighed 1268 pounds. She was 3rd in market class and was Carcass of Merit.

Kenneth Swearinger- Stonyford 4H. His steer weighed 1273 pounds. He was 3rd in market class and was Carcass of Merit.

Princeton FFA:

Hailey Suhre- steer weighed 1287 pounds. She was 2^{nd} in market class. Won her Showmanship heat and was 8^{th} overall for showmanship. She was 3^{rd} in rate of gain contest and was Carcass of Merit.

Melissa Beebe- steer weighed 1272 pounds. She was 5th in market class and was Carcass of Merit.

Sandra Franco- steer weighed 1512 pounds. She was 2^{nd} in market class and was 9^{th} overall in showmanship. She tied for $1^{st}/2^{nd}$ for rate of gain contest.

Monroe Miller- steer weighed 1424 pounds. He was 3rd in market class. He was Gold Seal for the Carcass contest and was the overall winner.

Caitlin Hill- steer weighed 1346 pounds. She was 5th in her market class, won Novice Showmanship and went on to be 5th overall for showmanship. Carcass of Merit and was 6th in the carcass contest.

There were 48 steers total and the Princeton Steers were in the top 23. They were all Choice - or better.

Monroe Miller showed a Poundmaker heifer for the breeding show. Travis Moniz showed a Poundmaker heifer which won her class and made Champion Drive where she was Reserve Supreme Champion Heifer. Travis also showed a purebred that won her class and made champion drive. Travis also won pair of females with the South Devon.

Princeton 4H and FFA both won clean barn awards and 4H won educational display. Monroe Miller received the Herdsman award and Travis Moniz won the Outstanding Beef Exhibitor.
